Haller, Susan K., and Mary G. Richardson, Comparing Kisses. Nov. 2004, 190–96.
Herbal-Eisenmann, Beth A., and M. Lynn Breyfogle, Questioning Our Patterns of Questioning. May 2005, 484–89.
Hillman, Susan L., and Cathy M. Malotka, Changing Views: Fearless Families Conquering Technology Together. Nov. 2004, 169–73.
Hodgson, Ted, Karen Bush Hoiberg, Janet Sharp, and Jim Colbert, Geometric Probability and the Areas of Leaves. Mar. 2005, 326–32.
Hoiberg, Karen Bush, Janet Sharp, Ted Hodgson, and Jim Colbert, Geometric Probability and the Areas of Leaves. Mar. 2005, 326–32.
Huang, Alyssa Y., George Gadanidis, and Janette M. Gadanidis, Using Humor to Gain Mathematical Insight. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 244–50.

Jacobs, Judith E., and Jodie D. Novak, Sorting Symbol Strings. Mar. 2005, 334–38.
Jones, Dustin L., and Fran Arbaugh, What Do Students Know about Time? Sept. 2004, 82–84.

Kalder, Robin S., Shopping Savings or Holiday High Jinks? Nov. 2004, 180–82.
Kalman, Richard, The Value of Multiple Solutions. Nov. 2004, 174–79.
Kersaint, Gladis, The Bushel Problem. Nov. 2004, 183, 188.
———, Covering the Pool. Feb. 2005, 297, 291.
———, A Fruitful Crop. Sept. 2004, 95–99.
———, Marble Tournament. Sept. 2004, 93, 92.
———, Midas Touch. Oct. 2004, 148–50.
———, Ticket Sales. Oct. 2004, 130, 139.
———, What's the Area? Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005. 243, 235.
King, Cindy, Thomasenia Lott Adams, and Fiona Thangata, "Weigh" to Go! Exploring Mathematical Language. May 2005, 444–48.
Klabunde, Daric A., and Valerie A. Pumala, Learning Measurement through Practice. May 2005, 452–60.
Klass-Tsirulnikov, Bella, and Miriam Amit, Paving the Way to Algebraic Word Problems Using a Nonalgebraic Route. Feb. 2005, 271–76.
Krebs, Angela S., Studying Students' Reasoning in Writing Generalizations. Feb. 2005, 284–87.

Lambdin, Diana V., and Kathleen Lynch, Examining Mathematics Tasks from the National Assessment of Educational Progress. Feb. 2005, 314–18.
Lynch, Kathleen, and Diana V. Lambdin, Examining Mathematics Tasks from the National Assessment of Educational Progress. Feb. 2005, 314–18.

Malotka, Cathy M., and Susan L. Hillman, Changing Views: Fearless Families Conquering Technology Together. Nov. 2004, 169–73.
Mann, Robert, Lines by the Book. Aug. 2004, 8–15.
Marcoux, Cheryl, and Sherrie Martinie, What Does It Mean to "Do Math" in Today's Classrooms? Sept. 2004, 86–87.
Marshall, Paul D., and Laszlo Varro, Cracking the Code. Aug. 2004, 54–60.
Martinez-Cruz, Armando M., and Ellen C. Barger, Adding à la Gauss. Oct. 2004, 152–58.
Martinie, Sherrie, and Cheryl Marcoux, What Does It Mean to "Do Math" in Today's Classrooms? Sept. 2004, 86–87.
Martinie, Sherri, and Jennifer Bay-Williams, What Does Algebraic Thinking Look Like? Nov. 2004, 198–99.
Matthews, James I., Sharon Dugdale, and Shannon Guerrero, The Art of Posing Problems and Guiding Investigations. Oct. 2004, 140–47.
Maus, John W., Every Story Tells a Picture. Apr. 2005, 375–79.
McClure, Melanie Schultz, and Esther M. H. Billings, Mailing a Publication: Exploring Linear and Step Functions in a Real-World Context. Mar. 2005, 349–55.
McMillen, Sue, Change in Your Shoe; Slowing Down the Express. Aug. 2004, 37, 36.
———, Snowball Symmetry; Chancy Choices. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 230, 235.
———, Tick, Tock, Tick Tock; The Lost Year. Oct. 2004, 128, 139.
———, 2 B's or 3 B's; Around the World in 80 Days? Apr. 2005, 404, 403.
———, Why Weight? There Is No Such Thing as a Free Lollipop. Nov. 2004, 189, 188.
McMillen, Sue, and Mary M. Sullivan, Pi in Your Face; Watch Those Signs! Sept. 2004, 85, 91–92.
———, A Square by Any Other Name; Counting Sheep. Feb. 2005, 292, 291.
———, What Are the Odds? Taxed to the Max! Mar. 2005, 342, 347.
———, What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.
McNamee, Julia, and Cynthia Seidel, Phenomenally Exciting Joint Mathematics-English Vocabulary Project. May 2005, 461–63.
McShea, Betsy, Judith Vogel, and Maureen Yarnevich, Harry Potter and the Magic of Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 408–14.
Metz, Mary Lou, Breaking the "Math Curse." Apr. 2005, 406–7.
Meyer, Margaret R., New Tricks for Old Dogs. Aug. 2004, 6–7.
Meyer, Margaret R., and Jennifer M. Bay-Williams, Why Not Just Tell Students How to Solve the Problem? Mar. 2005, 340–41.
Meyer, Margaret R., and Laurie Rubel, The Pursuit of Mathematics for All! May 2005, 479–83.
Moseley, Bryan, Express Yourself with Algebra? This Game Delivers! Aug. 2004, 38–40.
Moss, Joan, and Beverly Caswell, Building Percent Dolls: Connecting Linear Measurement to Learning Ratio and Proportion. Sept. 2004, 68–74.
Murphy, David E., and Laura L. Gulley, John Henry—The Steel Driving Man. Apr. 2005, 380–85.
Murphy, Katherine, and Thomasenia Lott Adams, A Look at Some Numbers of Old: Perfect, Deficient, and Abundant. Feb. 2005, 309–13.

Nosegbe-Okoka, Clara, A Sense-Making Approach to Word Problems. Aug. 2004, 41–45.
Novak, Jodie D., and Judith E. Jacobs, Sorting Symbol Strings. Mar. 2005, 334–38.
Nusinov, Chuck, David K. Pugalee, Chris Giersch, David Royster, and Thomas E. Pinelli, Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.

Pace, Charyl L., You Read Me a Story, I Will Read You a Pattern. Apr. 2005, 424–29.
Pagni, David L., Angles, Time, and Proportion. May 2005, 436–41.
Perlwitz, Marcela D., Dividing Fractions: Reconciling Self-Generated Solutions with Algorithmic Answers. Feb. 2005, 278–83.
———, Two Students' Constructed Strategies to Divide Fractions. Oct. 2004, 122–26.
Pinelli, Thomas E., David K. Pugalee, Chuck Nusinov, Chris Giersch, and David Royster, Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Pugalee, David K., Chuck Nusinov, Chris Giersch, David Royster, and Thomas E.

Pinelli, Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Pumala, Valerie A., and Daric A. Klabunde, Learning Measurement through Practice. May 2005, 452–60.

Richardson, Mary G., and David C. Coffey, Rethinking Fair Games. Feb. 2005, 298–303.
Richardson, Mary G., and Susan K. Haller, Comparing Kisses. Nov. 2004, 190–96.
Royster, David, David K. Pugalee, Chuck Nusinov, Chris Giersch, and Thomas E. Pinelli, Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Rubel, Laurie, and Margaret R. Meyer, The Pursuit of Mathematics for All! May 2005, 479–83.

Schiller, Diane, and Mary Charles, Moving Forward and Backward with Palindromes. Sept. 2004, 76–80.
Schooler, Susan Rodgers, A "Chilling" Project Integrating Mathematics, Science, and Technology. Oct. 2004, 116–21.
Seidel, Cynthia, and Julia McNamee, Phenomenally Exciting Joint Mathematics-English Vocabulary Project. May 2005, 461–63.
Sharp, Janet, Karen Bush Hoiberg, Ted Hodgson, and Jim Colbert, Geometric Probability and the Areas of Leaves. Mar. 2005, 326–32.
Shaughnessy, J. Michael, and Jane M. Watson, Proportional Reasoning: Lessons from Research in Data and Chance. Sept. 2004, 104–9.
Sherard, Hamp, Introduction to Volume 10: Growth and Change. Aug. 2004, 3.
Siegel, Murray H., The Sum of Cubes: An Activity for Review and Conjecture. Mar. 2005, 356–59.
Spangler, David B., Mathematics Sleuth for a Day. Feb. 2005, 294–95.
Sullivan, Mary M., and Sue McMillen, Pi in Your Face; Watch Those Signs! Sept. 2004, 85, 91–92.
———, A Square by Any Other Name; Counting Sheep. Feb. 2005, 292, 291.
———, What Are the Odds? Taxed to the Max! Mar. 2005, 342, 347.
———, What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.

Thangata, Fiona, Thomasenia Lott Adams, and Cindy King, "Weigh" to Go! Exploring Mathematical Language. May 2005, 444–48.
Thompson, Denisse R., Richard A. Austin, and Charlene E. Beckmann, Exploring Measurement Concepts through Literature: Natural Links across Disciplines. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 218–24.
Tomback, Jessica, and Frances Van Dyke, Collaborating to Introduce Algebra. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 236–42.

Van Dyke, Frances, and Jessica Tomback, Collaborating to Introduce Algebra. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 236–42.
Varro, Laszlo, and Paul D. Marshall, Cracking the Code. Aug. 2004, 54–60.
Vogel, Judith, Betsy McShea, and Maureen Yarnevich, Harry Potter and the Magic of Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 408–14.

Watson, Jane M., and J. Michael Shaughnessy, Proportional Reasoning: Lessons from Research in Data and Chance. Sept. 2004, 104–9.
Weeden, Katherine, The Car Wash. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 252–55.
———, Overlaps. Nov. 2004, 202–4.
Wilson, Nancy, and Beth Cipoletti, Turning Origami into the Language of Mathematics. August 2004, 26–31.

Yarnevich, Maureen, Betsy McShea, and Judith Vogel, Harry Potter and the Magic of Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 408–14.

Zambo, Ron, The Power of Two: Linking Mathematics and Literature. Apr. 2005, 394–99.

Subject Index

Algebra/Algebraic Thinking

Adding à la Gauss. Oct. 2004, 152–58.
Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Collaborating to Introduce Algebra. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 236–42.
December/January's Menu of Problems. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 232–35.
Express Yourself with Algebra? This Game Delivers! Aug. 2004, 38–40.
Lines by the Book. Aug. 2004, 8–15.
November's Menu of Problems. Nov. 2004, 184–87.
October's Menu of Problems. Oct. 2004, 136–39.
Paving the Way to Algebraic Word Problems Using a Nonalgebraic Route. Feb. 2005, 271–76.
Poetry in Motion: Using Shel Silverstein's Works to Engage Students in Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 386–93.
Sorting Symbol Strings. Mar. 2005, 334–38.
Studying Students' Reasoning in Writing Generalizations. Feb. 2005, 284–87.
Tick, Tock, Tick Tock; The Lost Year. Oct. 2004, 128, 139.
Ticket Sales. Oct. 2004, 130, 139.
What Does Algebraic Thinking Look Like? Nov. 2004, 198–99.
You Read Me a Story, I Will Read You a Pattern. Apr. 2005, 424–29.

Assessment

Examining Mathematics Tasks from the National Assessment of Educational Progress. Feb. 2005, 314–18.

Communication

Phenomenally Exciting Joint Mathematics-English Vocabulary Project. May 2005, 461–63.
A Problem-Solving Alternative to Using Key Words. Mar. 2005, 360–65.
Questioning Our Patterns of Questioning. May 2005, 484–89.
"Weigh" to Go! Exploring Mathematical Language. May 2005, 444–48.

Computation/Arithmetic

Dividing Fractions: Reconciling Self-Generated Solutions with Algorithmic Answers. Feb. 2005, 278–83.
Fairness in Price Comparisons: Grocery Shopper Beware. May 2005, 450–51.
Figuring Fitness: Nutrition in the Middle Grades. Aug. 2004, 46–53.
Students' Strategies for Fair Shares. Oct. 2004, 132–35.
Two Students' Constructed Strategies to Divide Fractions. Oct. 2004, 122–26.
Using Ancient Egyptian Fractions to Review Fraction Concepts. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 226–29.

Connections/Applications

Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Children's Literature: A Motivating Context to Explore Functions. May 2005, 470–78.
A "Chilling" Project Integrating Mathematics, Science, and Technology. Oct. 2004, 116–21.
Every Story Tells a Picture. Apr. 2005, 375–79.
Exploring Measurement Concepts through Literature: Natural Links across Disciplines. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 218–24.
Fairness in Price Comparisons: Grocery

Shopper Beware. May 2005, 450–51.
Figuring Fitness: Nutrition in the Middle Grades. Aug. 2004, 46–53.
Harry Potter and the Magic of Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 408–14.
Harry Potter in the Mathematics Classroom. Aug. 2004, 23–25.
John Henry—The Steel Driving Man. Apr. 2005, 380–85.
Making a Million Meaningful. Apr. 2005, 416–23.
Phenomenally Exciting Joint Mathematics-English Vocabulary Project. May 2005, 461–63.
The Power of Two: Linking Mathematics and Literature. Apr. 2005, 394–99.
Turning Origami into the Language of Mathematics. August 2004, 26–31.
2 B's or 3 B's; Around the World in 80 Days? Apr. 2005, 404, 403.
What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.
You Read Me a Story, I Will Read You a Pattern. Apr. 2005, 424–29.

Curriculum
What Do Students Know about Time? Sept. 2004, 82–84.

Editorial
New Tricks for Old Dogs. Aug. 2004, 6–7.

Equity and Diversity
The Equity Principle through the Voices of African American Male Students. Sept. 2004, 100–103.
The Pursuit of Mathematics for All! May 2005, 479–83.

Estimation/Approximation
(See also Number Sense)

Function
Children's Literature: A Motivating Context to Explore Functions. May 2005, 470–78.
Mailing a Publication: Exploring Linear and Step Functions in a Real-World Context. Mar. 2005, 349–55.

Games and Puzzles
Express Yourself with Algebra? This Game Delivers! Aug. 2004, 38–40.

Geometry
(See also Measurement)
Angles, Time, and Proportion. May 2005, 436–41.
Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Computer-Generated Fractal Art, Feb. 2005, 262–69.
Poetry in Motion: Using Shel Silverstein's Works to Engage Students in Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 386–93.
Spatial Thinking Tasks Can Change Students' Attitudes. Feb. 2005, 304–8.
Turning Origami into the Language of Mathematics. August 2004, 26–31.
What Does It Mean to "Do Math" in Today's Classrooms? Sept. 2004, 86–87.
"You Are Cleared to Land." Aug. 2004, 18–22.

History
A Look at Some Numbers of Old: Perfect, Deficient, and Abundant. Feb. 2005, 309–13.
Using Ancient Egyptian Fractions to Review Fraction Concepts. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 226–29.

Home/Community/Business Relations
Changing Views: Fearless Families Conquering Technology Together. Nov. 2004, 169–73.

Humor
Change in Your Shoe; Slowing Down the Express. Aug. 2004, 37, 36.
Pi in Your Face; Watch Those Signs! Sept. 2004, 85, 91–92.
Snowball Symmetry; Chancy Choices. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 230, 235.
A Square by Any Other Name; Counting Sheep. Feb. 2005, 292, 291.
Tick, Tock, Tick Tock; The Lost Year. Oct. 2004, 128, 139.
2 B's or 3 B's; Around the World in 80 Days? Apr. 2005, 404, 403.
What Are the Odds? Taxed to the Max! Mar. 2005, 342, 347.
What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.
Why Weight? There Is No Such Thing as a Free Lollipop. Nov. 2004, 189, 188.

Measurement
Angles, Time, and Proportion. May 2005, 436–41.
Building Percent Dolls: Connecting Linear Measurement to Learning Ratio and Proportion. Sept. 2004, 68–74.
Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Exploring Measurement Concepts through Literature: Natural Links across Disciplines. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 218–24.
Fairness in Price Comparisons: Grocery Shopper Beware. May 2005, 450–51.
Figuring Fitness: Nutrition in the Middle Grades. Aug. 2004, 46–53.
Geometric Probability and the Areas of Leaves. Mar. 2005, 326–32.
How Much Water Is in the Skating Rink? Nov. 2004, 164–68.
Learning Measurement through Practice. May 2005, 452–60.
Lines by the Book. Aug. 2004, 8–15.
Poetry in Motion: Using Shel Silverstein's Works to Engage Students in Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 386–93.
Students' Strategies for Fair Shares. Oct. 2004, 132–35.
Studying Students' Reasoning in Writing Generalizations. Feb. 2005, 284–87.
What Do Students Know about Time? Sept. 2004, 82–84.
"You Are Cleared to Land." Aug. 2004, 18–22.

Number Sense
Building Percent Dolls: Connecting Linear Measurement to Learning Ratio and Proportion. Sept. 2004, 68–74.
The Sum of Cubes: An Activity for Review and Conjecture. Mar. 2005, 356–59.
What Are the Odds? Taxed to the Max! Mar. 2005, 342, 347.

Number System
Moving Forward and Backward with Palindromes. Sept. 2004, 76–80.
Students' Strategies for Fair Shares. Oct. 2004, 132–35.
Two Students' Constructed Strategies to Divide Fractions. Oct. 2004, 122–26.

Number Theory
Breaking the "Math Curse." Apr. 2005, 406–7.
A Look at Some Numbers of Old: Perfect, Deficient, and Abundant. Feb. 2005, 309–13.

Patterns
Breaking the "Math Curse." Apr. 2005, 406–7.
Building Percent Dolls: Connecting Linear Measurement to Learning Ratio and Proportion. Sept. 2004, 68–74.

Probability
Comparing Kisses. Nov. 2004, 190–96.
Geometric Probability and the Areas of Leaves. Mar. 2005, 326–32.
Poetry in Motion: Using Shel Silverstein's Works to Engage Students in Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 386–93.

Rethinking Fair Games. Feb. 2005, 298–303.
2 B's or 3 B's; Around the World in 80 Days? Apr. 2005, 404, 403.
What Are the Odds? Taxed to the Max! Mar. 2005, 342, 347.
What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.

Problem Solving

April's Menu of Problems. Apr. 2005, 400–403.
August's Menu of Problems. Aug. 2004, 32–36.
The Bushel Problem. Nov. 2004, 183, 188.
The Car Wash. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 252–55.
Covering the Pool. Feb. 2005, 297, 291.
December/January's Menu of Problems. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 232–35.
February's Menu of Problems. Feb. 2005, 288–91.
A Fruitful Crop. Sept. 2004, 95–99.
Marble Tournament. Sept. 2004, 93, 92.
March's Menu of Problems. Mar. 2005, 344–47.
Mathematics Sleuth for a Day. Feb. 2005, 294–95.
May's Menu of Problems. May 2005, 464–67.
Midas Touch. Oct. 2004, 148–50.
November's Menu of Problems. Nov. 2004, 184–87.
October's Menu of Problems. Oct. 2004, 136–39.
Overlaps. Nov. 2004, 202–4.
Paving the Way to Algebraic Word Problems Using a Nonalgebraic Route. Feb. 2005, 271–76.
A Problem-Solving Alternative to Using Key Words. Mar. 2005, 360–65.
September's Menu of Problems. Sept. 2004, 88–90.
Shopping Savings or Holiday High Jinks? Nov. 2004, 180–82.
Spatial Thinking Tasks Can Change Students' Attitudes. Feb. 2005, 304–8.
Ticket Sales. Oct. 2004, 130, 139.
2 B's or 3 B's; Around the World in 80 Days? Apr. 2005, 404, 403.
The Value of Multiple Solutions. Nov. 2004, 174–79.
What Are the Odds? Taxed to the Max! Mar. 2005, 342, 347.
What Does It Mean to "Do Math" in Today's Classrooms? Sept. 2004, 86–87.
What's the Area? Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 243, 235.
What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.
Why Not Just Tell Students How to Solve the Problem? Mar. 2005, 340–41.

Proportional Reasoning

Building Percent Dolls: Connecting Linear Measurement to Learning Ratio and Proportion. Sept. 2004, 68–74.
Poetry in Motion: Using Shel Silverstein's Works to Engage Students in Mathematics. Apr. 2005, 386–93.
Proportional Reasoning: Lessons from Research in Data and Chance. Sept. 2004, 104–9.

Reasoning

A Problem-Solving Alternative to Using Key Words. Mar. 2005, 360–65.
The Sum of Cubes: An Activity for Review and Conjecture. Mar. 2005, 356–59.

Representation

Mailing a Publication: Exploring Linear and Step Functions in a Real-World Context. Mar. 2005, 349–55.

Research

Proportional Reasoning: Lessons from Research in Data and Chance. Sept. 2004, 104–9.

Statistics/Data Analysis

Celebrating 100 Years of Flight: Testing Wing Designs in Aircraft. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 212–17.
Cracking the Code. Aug. 2004, 54–60.
Every Story Tells a Picture. Apr. 2005, 375–79.
What's Your Chance? The Cookie Contest. May 2005, 469, 468.

Teachers

New Tricks for Old Dogs. Aug. 2004, 6–7.

Teaching

The Art of Posing Problems and Guiding Investigations. Oct. 2004, 140–47.
A "Chilling" Project Integrating Mathematics, Science, and Technology. Oct. 2004, 116–21.
Harry Pòtter in the Mathematics Classroom. Aug. 2004, 23–25.
Learning Measurement through Practice. May 2005, 452–60.
Lines by the Book. Aug. 2004, 8–15.
Mailing a Publication: Exploring Linear and Step Functions in a Real-World Context. Mar. 2005, 349–55.
New Tricks for Old Dogs. Aug. 2004, 6–7.
Phenomenally Exciting Joint Mathematics-English Vocabulary Project. May 2005, 461–63.
The Power of Two: Linking Mathematics and Literature. Apr. 2005, 394–99.
A Sense-Making Approach to Word Problems. Aug. 2004, 41–45.
Sorting Symbol Strings. Mar. 2005, 334–38.
Using Humor to Gain Mathematical Insight. Dec. 2004/Jan. 2005, 244–50.

Technology

Changing Views: Fearless Families Conquering Technology Together. Nov. 2004, 169–73.
Computer-Generated Fractal Art, Feb. 2005, 262–69. □

Do You Want to Add Your Two Cents?

You may have opinions about articles or departments mentioned in this issue. Perhaps you have a classroom activity to share that is related to one of them. If so, please share them with other teachers by writing to "Readers Write," NCTM, 1906 Association Drive, Reston, VA 20191-1502.